8 U. S. NAVY PLANES CRASH

FOG TRAPS 12 PLANES IN FLORIDA

2 Pilots Killed as Ships Burn; 6 Bail Out in Fog

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—Trapped in a dense fog, eight navy planes were wrecked and two pilots killed on a routine training flight last night.

Rain washed away the fog at dawn today, disclosing the full toll to officers of the Pensacola naval air station.

Six student fliers escaped by bailing out in the darkness in their first parachute jumps. Four pilots landed safely in south Alabama.

Where 8 U. S. Planes Crashed

Lieut. G. F. Presser, Sr., a Brazilian navy officer receiving regular training here, died when his plane crashed and burned at Corry Field, where land planes are quartered.

Lieut. N. M. Ostergren was found dead in his wrecked and burned plane near McDavid, Fla., about 25 miles north of Pensacola. The fog kept his fate a mystery until after dawn, when scouting planes took to the air for a search of the section.

Lieut. J. P. Monroe, aide to the commandant of the station, said a board of inquiry would convene today.

Besides Lieut. Presser, another Brazilian officer, Lieut. A. C. P. Horta, was in the group. He leaped to safety.

While no official comment was immediately available concerning the presence of the Brazilian officers in the flight, it was indicated they were taking the regular course as students.

FOG BLOTS LIGHTS

A law approved by Congress last summer permits training of South American aviators in United States service schools. The measure left regulations up to the President.

Nine advanced students and three instructors took off early last night for a routine after-dark flight.

Not long after they were aloft a soupy fog rolled in from the Gulf of Mexico. The well-lighted landing field was blotted out.

Thousands of feet high, the fliers were faced with the choice of hunting an airport that was not fog-bound or flying until their gasoline was exhausted and jumping.

Three instructors and one student managed successful landings. Cadet J. E. W. Whitener, Lieutenant W. G. Jackson and Lieutenant J. H. Brett, Jr., came down at the Atmore, Ala., airport. Cadet A. G.

Girl Beaten by Three Thugs; 5 Robberies in Crime Wave

Grim-lipped, determined Boston police started out today to smash a crime wave which included an attack upon a 23-year-old girl in the loneliness of the Fenway and five robberies—all of which happened between dark and dawn. Arrests were made in two of the robberies.

The robberies followed five others Saturday night, and came within a few hours of the appointment by Commissioner Timilty of special anti-crime squads, operating in "prowl cars," and an announcement from Superintendent of Police Fallon that he was taking personal charge of the drive.

The girl, Louise Ware, is employed by the Boston Students' Union, and lives in a Fenway apartment. She was returning home after visiting a friend in a Roxbury hospital.

GIRL BATTLES IN VAIN

As she passed the Art Museum, three youths, between the ages of 16 and 18, seized her, struck her repeatedly and dragged her into the shrubbery. One held a hand over her mouth, and as she struggled and protested they struck her face repeatedly. Finally released, she stumbled home, sobbing, and notified police. She gave descriptions of her assailants.

"I can't ever forget their horrible faces," she sobbed. "I didn't have a chance to get away. Even the youngest was terribly strong."

She was attended by Police Surgeon J. W. Hite of Park drive, Back Bay.

First of the robberies took place within an hour from the time the special crime squads went into action.

SHOE STORE HELD UP

Holding his hand in his pocket as though he had a pistol, a man invaded the Thom McAn shoe store at 1078 Washington street and robbed Nelson F. Lambert of Edwin street, Atlantic, the manager, of $60. A man was arrested, but the money was not found.

The second robbery came when a man boarded a truck driven by Morris Bornstein, 50, of Shirley street, Winthrop, and robbed him of $8. A man, who said he was John W. Swede, 30, of West Fourth street, was arrested.

OTHER ROBBERIES

So far the police were ahead, but the next three robbers escaped.

The third robbed Henry Park, 56, operator of a Chinese laundry at 6 Church street, of $3.25.

The fourth robbed Walter J. Dolan, 25, of Everett street, Allston, a taxi driver, of $2.70.

The new crime squads will continue to work in five cars on all-night shifts.

AIR CRASH SURVIVOR TELLS OF TRAGEDY

Harbert said the planes became separated about 9.30 p. m.

"I flew until the indicator showed the gas tank was empty," he said. "I glanced at my watch and it was 10:19.

"I thought I was near Corry Field when I went over the side. Later I learned I was miles away.

"When I landed I came down in waist-deep water. I was in the Escambia river, near the mouth.

"It was pitch-dark and I didn't know which way to go. I started one way and the water started getting deeper. I tried another direction and it was deeper again."

With his flashlight, which was tied around his neck in accordance with navy flying regulations, Harbert tried to signal.

"I yelled, and finally heard an answer," he related. "A couple of fishermen picked me up in a boat."

HELEN HUGHES
"Wedding Intentions a Hoax"

Marriage License Hoax Stirs Ire of Radio Style Girl

Boss. Dear Sir: What's wrong in Denmark seems to be what's wrong with Helen Walton Hughes' marriage intention you asked me to check—and is she burning! . . . If you will skip the wisecrack, I might say, however, she is a very nice looker.

It started, if you remember, when you saw the intention return from City Hall. It stated that one Miss Helen Walton Hughes, 21 years old, a daughter of Elias Hughes of Houlton, Me., and one John B. Brooks, also 21, son of John H. Brooks, also born in Houlton, Me., a musician, living in Huntington av., had filed for a license.

You remember her as the cute little bunch of personality plus who won the M-G-M Sunday Advertiser movie test two years ago, and who is now on Radio Station WCOP as a fashion expert. The boy works at the penthouse on the Bradford.

It began to sound a little strange when I talked to the boy over the telephone.

He was not getting married. He didn't know any Miss Hughes, and he didn't fool around with picture stars. Good-bye.

So I lams up there and he says yes, he does know Miss Hughes, but he isn't marrying her on account of he's already married, and his wife's in Maryland.

So with that I heads for Emerson College, where Miss Hughes studies hard when she isn't broadcasting.

Boy, is she burning!

She knows the boy, she says, on account of he used to be on the same radio station before he made the network. And she remembers him from Houlton, where her daddy is a big potato man. Marry him? Never had such an idea!

She thinks it was a nasty sort of a joke and she is going to get handwriting experts to try and trace who did it. She was crying by now. Boy, is she burning!

So that's that . . . I guess.

Love,
HORACE GREELEY, JR.

P. S.: It seems like a phony, but you better watch out for the return of the license. You know, you never can tell. H. G.

2 Transfusions Fail, Girl Dies

Despite two blood transfusions given by her brother, Miss Katherine Kilroy, 19, a student nurse at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, died there today.

Miss Kilroy was the daughter of Patrolman Michael Kilroy of Brighton station, who was hurt in a fall from a patrol wagon in October, and has been disabled since.

When her condition was critical, a call for blood donors was broadcast to all police stations, and a dozen officers volunteered. They were not called—it was too late.

Curiosity Costs Baby Girl Her Curly Locks

DENVER, Feb. 21 (AP)—Three-year-old Elaine Nybord lost most of her blonde curls because she was too curious about her mother's electric batter mixer.

"I heard the baby scream," Mrs. C. A. Nybord said. "I turned around and saw the batter, the mixer and the baby all on the floor. Most of her hair was off."

Husband's Blood Is Given Twice to Wife Youth Shot

Loyal to his attractive wife who, police said, was shot by a jealous suitor, Lester Forsythe, 30, of Billerica, twice today gave his blood for emergency transfusions at St. John's Hospital, Lowell.

The 26-year-old mother of three children was shot at her home, the bullet lodging in her stomach, and so grave was her condition that officers dared not take her alleged assailant, Robert N. Challies, 20, to be confronted by her, for fear the shock would be too great.

Challies, police said, walked to the Billerica station and confessed to Chief William H. O'Brien immediately after the shooting. He was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon and intent to kill.

For 10 years, ever since he was a small boy, Challies had been a close friend both of Mr. and Mrs. Forsythe, the husband informed the Boston Evening American today.

"No one knows why he did it—I didn't have the slightest reason for suspecting such a thing would happen," Forsythe said.

"I can't believe Bob's story to the police that he had been seeing Dorothea so much, and right now, when she needs me most, I want to protect her with my love."

Before they were married seven years ago, Forsythe, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gurney Forsythe of Walnut street, Somerville, and his wife, the former Miss Dorothe Dunn of Cambridge, were friendly with Challies, the husband said.

CAN'T ACCOUNT FOR DEED

"My folks had a camp at Nutting's Lake, near his home, and since he was 10 years old I have known him well. He came to visit us a lot—he used to look after our children when we went out, just as though he were almost one of the family.

"There was never anything improper in his friendship with Mrs. Forsythe and I can't account for what he did, unless he went temporarily insane."

Friends say Challies was infatuated with her. During the absence of her husband, who is a WPA employe, he visited the house twice yesterday. The first visit was about noon. The second about 3:30 p. m.

Mrs. Helena Oliver, 26, of Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, a friend of the Forsythe family, had gone to the home to help Mrs. Forsythe care for the children, Beverly, 6, Lester, Jr., two years and Patricia, two months old.

Mrs. Forsythe seemed afraid to open the door on the second visit, Mrs. Oliver told the police. It was only when Challies pleaded that he had something confidential to divulge that she yielded. She held the baby in her arms while talking with Challies.

Then she laid Patricia in the bassinet and Mrs. Oliver said she heard Challies shout:

"I am going to kill you."

"You wouldn't do that," pleaded Mrs. Forsythe.

There was a shot and the woman crumpled unconscious. Mrs. Oliver ran in from the kitchen, but Challies had fled.

Stolen Money In Coat Lining

When Olaf Bottleson, seaman, faw down 'n' go BOOM! in a Chelsea night club early today he had $28 in his wallet. When he came to he didn't have, so he told police that Joseph Viscay, 29, of Saratoga street, East Boston, had helped him up.

Police found the $28 in the lining of Viscay's coat. He was given a six months' suspended sentence.

Bottleson got back the money and started out to find a new place to faw down.

High State 'Pols' Hit by Tax Drive

With headaches in store for Massachusetts city and state politicians, the recently appointed United States Attorney General, Frank Murphy of Michigan, has ordered that every federal district court clean up its criminal calendar, the Boston Evening American learned today.

The order of the new attorney general will explode a bombshell in many states, it was also learned, and one of those to explode loudest will be in this area.

AIMED AT TAX DODGERS

In Boston, the American learned, among other federal investigations ready for presentation to the grand jury, is one two years old and conducted by special agents of the United States Treasury Department.

This probe is one directed into allegedly fraudulent income tax reports and failure on the part of well-knowns to pay these taxes.

It included, it was learned, a probe into the affairs of former City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan, now serving a two-year sentence in Charles Street Jail on a charge of contempt of court.

The report on Dolan and his associates, business and political, is among several sent back to Washington months ago, it is understood.

Special agents of the Treasury Department have completed questioning of close to 200 persons, including outstanding politicians both in and out of office.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Henry M. Leen and Special Agent Clifton Mack of the Treasury Department have been working in co-operation with this probe.

MILLION OWED U. S.

The amount owed the government in unpaid taxes, it is understood, is close to $1,000,000.

Assistant Prosecutor Leen declined to comment on the investigation.

Boston money lenders, one of whom has a lavish suite in a downtown office building, are reported on the list of those into whose affairs the special agents have delved.

It is understood the agents, in the case of several money lenders, discovered that unreported taxes even on excess interest charged clients run into startling figures and that the state law on loans and interest has been frequently violated.

'BAMBINO' AND COUSIN
Starts Way to Fame

Barman Backs Her Debut

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—An Italian bartender, Sereno Corchia, who rented Carnegie Hall for the debut last night of his pretty dark-haired cousin, 18-year-old Louisa Corchia, today ranked as the latest patron of the arts.

In the great auditorium where the world's finest artists have appeared, the vivacious little Italian girl—who learned to sing by following Amelita Galli-Curci on the phonograph—tossed her notes bravely to the farthest gallery seat.

"Bravo!" shouted the 1000 friends, neighbors, relatives and others who had gathered to see the "bambino" launch a career her family hopes will take her to the Metropolitan.

HENRIETTA

'Chimp' on 5th Ave. Rampage

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (INS)—Henriette, a 165-pound chimpanzee from the Belgian Congo, escaped from her cage in a Fifth avenue pet shop today, clawed a woman clerk and finally was shot as she tried to smash her way through a show window to attack a crowd of 7000 persons watching her.

The crowd, attracted as Henriette raged berserk through the shop, smashing gold fish bowls and killing pet puppies, was so great it tied up traffic for blocks.

Police, fearing a panic if the chimpanzee should break the window, ordered Henry Freiling S. P. C. A. agent, to shoot her.

Rose said he bought Henriette to exhibit her at the World's Fair and insisted he could have recaptured her. He said she only understood Portuguese.

SOS for Duke's Yacht on Rocks

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 21 (AP)—The Duke of Sutherland's yacht Sanspeur radioed for help today, saying she had struck a submerged rock in the Gulf of California and was filling with water.

Hospital Head Says Only 27 Nurses Ill

Out of a staff of 750 nurses, only 27 are now out for illness, Dr. James W. Manary, superintendent at City Hospital, told the City Council committee on hospitals today.

Dr. Manary was replying to charges made by Mrs. Eulalie Schiffler, who said that her daughter, a student nurse, contracted tuberculosis because of overwork.

Yesterday the City Council passed an order that Dr. Manary appear today in the mayor's office to explain conditions at the hospital.

MURRAY PRESIDES

Present were City Councilors John E. Kerrigan of South Boston, Maurice H. Sullivan of Brighton, John B. Kelly of Dorchester, Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., of Dorchester, Edward M. Hutchinson of Dorchester and Clement A. Norton of Hyde Park.

City Council President George A. Murray, acting mayor, presided at the committee meeting in the office of Mayor Tobin, who is on vacation in the South.

Councilor Wilson said to Dr. Manary:

"You could have furnished this information yesterday and saved a lot of trouble. The budget commissioner was reported absent from the city and his assistant, John J. Sullivan, who started for the council meeting with information concerning the amount of money to be appropriated for nurses in 1939, dropped out of sight after starting down."

The council's action followed testimony of Mrs. Schiffler that her daughter Jean entered the hospital last October. Mrs. Schiffler testified that her daughter, without her knowledge, has been removed to Mattapan hospital and is being held there despite her protests.

"DENIED OWN DOCTOR"

The mother was Mrs. Eulalie Schiffler and her daughter, Jean, entered the hospital last October. Mrs. Schiffler declared that her daughter, without her knowledge, has been removed to the Mattapan hospital and is being held there despite her protests.

Collapsing from overwork, the mother said, the young nurse was placed in a room at City Hospital and denied the services of her own physician.

CHARGING her daughter was overworked at City Hospital, Mrs. Eulalie Schiffler testified before City Council that as a result the daughter, a student nurse, contracted tuberculosis. She was also forced to care for 40 newborn babies, the mother said.

"Not until a week after my daughter's collapse," Mrs. Schiffler said, "was I notified of her illness. Then I was told she was on the danger list, suffering from pneumonia and tuberculosis."

Trustees of the hospital and other officials failed to attend the session, the explanation being that in the present "grave emergency" every employe is needed at his hospital post.

13 FACE COURT AFTER NAZI RALLY

MOUNTED policemen had to help buddies on foot when 500 pickets broke through lines outside Madison Sq. Garden in New York in attempt to break up Bund meeting there. Disturbances also occurred inside. There were many fist fights and one heckler in hall was badly beaten by "storm troopers."

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—In a Nazi demonstration that filled vast Madison Square Garden, leaders of the German-American Bund stood under the sign of the Swastika to denounce "international Jewry," some members of the Roosevelt cabinet, and any American alliance with European democracies.

While uniformed storm troopers marched intermittently inside the Garden—which at official estimate held 20,000—a moving throng of anti-Nazis, theatergoers and the merely curious milled about in the streets outside.

About 1500 police reserves stood guard over the area.

As Fritz Kuhn, national leader of the Bund, was concluding a peroration against Jews, Isadore Greenbaum, a slight, 26-year-old hotel worker, leaped upon the great stage and ran toward the speaker.

Instantly, a dozen or more storm troopers set upon him, knocking him down and beating him as he held his head in his arms.

A squad of police pushed the storm troopers aside, picked him from the platform and, holding him high above their heads, ran to an exit. Most of his clothing was torn from his body.

Arraigned on a disorderly conduct charge today, Greenbaum pleaded guilty and was fined $25, with the alternative of 10 days in jail. He went to jail.

"I went to the Garden without any intention of interrupting," Greenbaum told Magistrate Harry G. Andrews. "But they talked so much against my religion and there was so much persecution I lost my head. I felt it my duty to talk."

Outside the Garden, 13 persons altogether were arrested in a series of fights involving the police—who refused permission of anti-Nazis to picket the Garden—and the followers and opponents of Nazism.

The first disturbance at the meeting involved Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist, who had shouted "nonsense" during a speech by G. W. Kunze, the Bund's national publicity director.

Mention of the names of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit; Rep. Martin Dies (D.) Texas, chairman of the house committee investigating unAmerican activities; Senators Borah and Nye, brought applause, while hisses arose in great roars when speakers called the name of Secretaries Perkins, Hopkins, Morgenthau, Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter and Attorney General Murphy.

Berlin Press Charges Effort to Kill Kuhn

BERLIN, Feb. 21 (INS)—The charge that an attempt to assassinate Fritz Kuhn, national leader of the German-American Bund, was made at last night's Madison Square Garden rally in New York was featured under screaming headlines in the German press today.

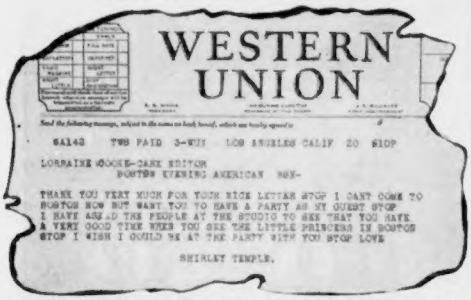
Breaking a long silence in Germany about Kuhn, Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels' newspaper, Der Angriff, vigorously defended the bund leader, and at the same time charged that an unidentified man arrested by the New York police at the meeting "was a Jew who tried to assassinate Kuhn

Hub Girl Shirley's 'Princess for Day'

Out of a clear blue sky—because of a scrawled note—has come wonderful happiness for a little Boston girl . . .

For 24 magic hours she is to be a princess, with a rentourage of willing servitors, mistress of all she surveys, with her every wish a command.

LORRAINE COOKE
She'll Be Princess for a Day



WESTERN UNION

SA142 TWB PAID 3-WUX LOS ANGELES CALIF 20 810P

LORRAINE COOKE—DARK EDITOR
BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN BOS—

THANK YOU VERY MUCH FOR YOUR NICE LETTER STOP I CANT COME TO BOSTON NOW BUT WANT YOU TO HAVE A PARTY AS MY GUEST STOP I HAVE ASKED THE PEOPLE AT THE STUDIO TO SEE THAT YOU HAVE A VERY GOOD TIME WHEN YOU SEE THE LITTLE PRINCESS IN BOSTON STOP I WISH I COULD BE AT THE PARTY WITH YOU STOP LOVE

SHIRLEY TEMPLE.

HERE'S the telegram Shirley Temple sent to Lorraine Cooke, Jamaica Plain girl who invited the film star to visit her "because she liked all her pictures." It means Lorraine will live like a princess for 24 magic hours.

It is all because, out of the simplicity of her childish heart, she extended the priceless boon of friendship clear across a continent to one who is, in real life, a princess—Shirley Temple, Princess of the Make Believe, perhaps, but reigning royalty in the heart of a nation.

The little girl is Lorraine Cooke, seven years old. She lives on the second floor of a 3-story wooden walkup in Jamaica Plain. Her father, Harry Cooke, is a war veteran, wounded and gassed overseas. He now works for the WPA, and gets $20 a week.

Her mother does the janitor work in the house in which she lives.

She has five brothers and sisters—ranging from Henry, Jr., who is 12, to little Patricia, two, who still crawls about the Cooke home on all fours . . .

WRITES MAGIC LETTER

There wasn't much Christmas at the Cooke home this year. Things aren't good as they might be. Father is a painter, and, when there's work, earns as much as $10 a day. But there hasn't been any work for a long time.

But Lorraine loves Shirley Temple—loves her as simply, as devotedly as anyone might love a princess. And in her simplicity she couldn't understand why, some day, Shirley wouldn't like to come and play with her for a whole day, to visit her in the humble Cooke home.

So she wrote a letter—two letters.

The first letter was to the editor of the Boston Evening American. It reads:

"I hear that Shirley Temple has a new picture coming to Boston. I would like to see her. I wish she would visit me. Please send her this letter."

The letter to Shirley read:

"Dere Shirley:

"I wish that you would come to visit me sometime. My mommy will fix a place to stay, and we can play all day. I go to see all your pictures at Jamaica Plain and my mommy has promised to let me see the new one. Please let me know when you can come.

"LORRAINE COOKE."

Editors get a lot of letters like that. They come every day. But this one had such appeal in it that it was forwarded on to Shirley at the Twentieth Century-Fox Studios. Then came the miracle.

It was answered!

First came a telegram for Lorraine, in care of the editor.

It was followed almost immediately by word from the Boston offices of the Twentieth Century Fox Company that Shirley had demanded, and had received permission for her little, unknown friend to have a party.

So Lorraine is to be a princess-for-a-day . . .

A suite has been engaged for her at the Ritz-Carlton hotel. There, Wednesday night at 6 o'clock, she and her mother, Mrs. Harry Cooke, will be installed.

Thursday will be a completely wonderful day.

It will start at 10 o'clock in the morning, with a hair-do, and then a marvelous shopping trip, in which Lorraine will acquire a brand new outfit. There will be a luncheon at the Copley-Plaza, and, in the afternoon, a theater party at Keith Memorial Theater to see Shirley's new picture, "The Little Princess."

There will be tea afterwards, and, at 6 o'clock again, the day will end.

Twenty-four magic hours . . .

GIRL, 6, TO DECIDE FIGHT FOR CUSTODY

Little Nancy Jenkins, six years old, will be privately interviewed within a day or so by Judge John C. Leggat of Middlesex probate court, and asked whether she wishes to continue her Saturday afternoon interlude with her mother, from whom her father is divorced.

The child's father is Charles E. Jenkins, 45, of Valley road, Arlington, granted a divorce a year ago on grounds of intoxication.

The mother is Esther E. Jenkins, 35, who seeks to have the terms of the divorce modified so she may see her child oftener.

Mrs. Alberta Jenkins, present wife of the father, and stepmother of Nancy, said even the Saturday visits with the real mother were harmful to the child. She declared the little girl returned nervous, restless and unable to eat.

The current Mrs. Jenkins is exactly her husband's age, tall and erect, with bobbed gray hair.

The natural mother, pleaded that the ruling giving her only about three hours a week of the baby's time was an outrage against nature itself.

Pierlot Forms New Belgian Cabinet

BRUSSELS, Feb. 21 (AP)—Catholic Senator Hubert Pierlot today announced formation of a new cabinet to replace the government of Paul Henri Spaak which resigned February 9.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN P. KEELEY IN COURT

Bridegroom Guilty In Gun-Toting Case

John P. Keeley, 21-year-old Charlestown youth who was released from court over the week-end to be married, was found guilty today of carrying a revolver.

The case was again continued to February 28 on Keeley's plea that he would like to produce another witness, and he was released in $500 personal recognizance.

With him in Charlestown court was his bride of three days, the former Violet McLaughlin, 18, of Ferrin street, Charlestown.

When they emerged from the courtroom, photographers started to snap their pictures and the girl began to cry.

"I told you you shouldn't have come," said Keeley.

"I wanted to be with you, dear," the girl said.

According to testimony, police received a call last week to go to a house in Bunker Hill street, where a man was carrying a gun. Officers found Keeley visiting friends, with an unloaded pistol in his coat pocket.

In defense, he said he found the weapon in his backyard. In making the finding, Judge Charles S. Sullivan said:

"This is a serious charge."

'Skippy's' Dad Accepts Jail

Deeper than ever in the toils of the law today were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur F. Beane of River street, Cambridge, whose two-year-old son "Skippy" is being cared for by relatives of the mother.

Mrs. Beane, given a two-months suspended sentence on bad check charges in East Cambridge court last Saturday, appeared in Somerville court today to face similar counts.

Her case was filed, but she was arrested by Boston police officers on another check charge.

Her husband, who appealed a sentence of a year imposed in East Cambridge court, was also in Somerville court on the same four complaints alleged against his wife.

He was found guilty and his case continued to February 24.

Upon his return to East Cambridge jail Beane withdrew his appeal from the year's sentence and began to serve his time.

'TWAS big day in court for madcap Merry Fahrney, patent medicine heiress. She won a ruling that son Peter is legally hers, despite adoption by her late father. This netted her half share in $700,000 estate of father, instead of a third. She also won right to appeal decision that set aside her divorce from Arturo Belingieri.

Orson Welles Here To Open New Play

Producer Spurns All Film Bids

By ANN MARSTERS

Big, bad Orson Welles (playfully speaking) roared into town last evening with a "princely" growth of beard, extra-long hair-comb and a lot of idealistic ideas on the past, present and future of the theater.

He came for the important purpose of rehearsing for its opening next Monday at the Colonial Theater, "Five Kings", in which he and Burgess Meredith are starred.

Mr Orson Welles is a very young man to have gone so far in any profession, and, since it happens to be the theater, his ideas are full of freshness and vitality.

When you talk to him, you feel that the whole future life of the American theater depends upon Orson Welles and his kind—young people like him who can become fired with the tremendous significance of the theater and its traditions; who in the fact of it, can turn a cold shoulder to Hollywood and its glamorous dollars, and work with all their strength and entnusiasm to "make the theater more interesting."

"We merely want to make the theater more interesting," he said. "It's the one goal of the Mercury Theater."

THAT MARS BROADCAST

Nobody could refrain from mentioning Orson's experience with that devastating broadcast in which the radio public—or at least a part of it—believed we were being invaded by the Men from Mars.

"We hadn't the slightest suspicion that the broadcast would result in such chaos," he said. "Yet, considering the publicity we received, it didn't do me or the Mercury Theater any real harm."

It undoubtedly did Mr. Welles a lot of good, for it meant a million dollars worth of publicity; spreading his name all over the land.

In Orson Welles' "Five Kings" production Boston will see for the time being, only the first part of it. Eventually, Welles will produce the adventures of all five kings to be portrayed in two successive performances.

"Five Kings" is the title which Orson Welles has given to his own version of Shakespeare's chronicle plays.

PLAYS FALSTAFF

Orson plays Falstaff, which, he says, is the reason for the beard. Burgess Meredith, as Prince Hal, probably has a beard, too.

Unlike Welles' previous production of Julius Caesar, his new play will have honest-to-goodness scenery. But no more, mind you, than is necessary to the mood and spirit of the production.

Considering Orson Welles, who synthesized, directed and produced "Five Kings", (as he directs and produces all his offerings), and who has, on occasion, written purely original plays, we might almost say that:

"England has Noel Coward—but America has Orson Welles."

Certainly he is a bright, progressive force in the American theater and he vows, with his right hand raised, that he will NEVER go Hollywood.

AUTO KILLS ME. MAN

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 21 (AP)—A man identified as Fred L. Keith, 71, a transient from Norway, Me., walked into the side of a passing automobile on Stratford avenue here and was injured fatally.

Given Probation On Leniency Plea

Pleading guilty to charges arising from a tussle with three Somerville aldermen outside a Cambridge restaurant last Jan. 13, Charles R. Condon, 23, of Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, was placed on probation for two years in East Cambridge Superior Court.

Condon was charged with carrying two revolvers, larceny of the weapons and assault and battery on Alderman Ralph Garrett. Aldermen Garrett, Irving Stackpole and Allen Kingston appeared in court yesterday and recommended leniency.

Portsmouth Fire Loss $250,000

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Feb. 21—This historic New Hampshire city today counted a $250,000 fire loss after a desperate battle by firefighters from five communities saved destruction of the entire center of the city.

For more than two hours, flaming embers fell on surrounding buildings, while fire departments from Rye and Dover and two Maine towns, Kittery and York, strove to hold the blaze to three large buildings. Twenty-five automobiles were destroyed in one of the blocks.

A general conflagration was halted only because roofs throughout the district were wet with rain and snow, according to the firefighters.

The buildings destroyed were the Diamond Match Company, the three-story garage of the Brooks Motor Company and the Sussman dyeing and cleansing establishment.

HUNT SLUGGER OF GIRL

WORCESTER, Feb. 21—A powerful young slugger was sought here today after Miss Catherine Carlone, 20, of Main street, Shrewsbury, reported to police she was slugged and escaped kidnaping only after a battle with her assailant.

GAMBLING WAR ECHO OF KILLING

State police today loosed a drive against gambling rackets in a dozen Greater Boston communities as Malden police apparently pursued a losing chase in the search for the slayers of John W. Wheelock, gambler.

Gambling overlords in the North End, South End, Revere, Lynn, Somerville and other communities were stalked for a clue to the identity of the slayers, after police became convinced that the 17 witnesses to the slaying could aid little in identifying the killers.

At the same time, police clung to the slender hope that Daniel "Irish Paddy" Flynn, bodyguard of the slain Wheelock, seriously wounded in the gun fight in which his chief was slain, may recover sufficiently at Malden Hospital to set them on the right track.

All 17 of those who witnessed the $14,000 holdup and murder in a Malden cellar again viewed today the pictures of a score of known gangsters and hijackers without being able to give police anything resembling a definite identification.

State police began a secret drive on their own account—spurred by the demand of Malden Alderman Henry H. Goldman that state authorities be called into Malden to halt gambling.

Auto Tip Spurs Howland Hunt

G-men today sped along the long-cold trail of John H. Howland, 26, accused slayer of Miss Maude Horne, 61-year-old Milton, N. H., spinster, after the automobile of the victim, in which he is believed to have fled, was discovered at Millersburg, Penn.

Authorities believe that Howland, guitar-playing ex-convict, fled the murder scene with his cousin, Alda Butler, 15-year-old Milton school girl, after the crime on February 3.

Discovery of Miss Horne's automobile in Pennsylvania gave G-men the long-awaited "break" they had sought and turned the search today from New Hampshire summer resorts to the south. Police announced again they wished only to question the young school girl, believed to be in Howland's company.

Li Hung Chang's Grandson Slain

SHANGHAI, Feb. 21 (AP) — Li Kuo-chieh, better known as Marquis Li, grandson of Li Hung-Chang, famous Chinese statesman, was killed today in the American defense sector of the International Settlement by two unidentified gunmen.

Li was reported to have been associated with the Japanese-sponsored Nanking reformed government.

Bridge Knocks Man From Freight Car

Knocked from a freight car as it passed under the Cambridge bridge near Sullivan square, John S. Huber, 48, of Boston avenue, Medford, a Boston & Maine railroad brakeman, was seriously injured today. A police ambulance took him to Massachusetts General Hospital.

School Children Rejoice Over Holiday on March 17

There was joy today in the hearts of Boston's school children—downright rejoicing throughout the South Boston and Dorchester districts—and a gleam of accomplishment in the eyes of many of their elders.

For famed Evacuation Day and St. Patrick's Day, the great double holiday of the district, will be observed this March 17 with a full school holiday for all youngsters in the area, with a half-holiday in all other of the city's schools.

Dr. Patrick Foley cast the only dissenting ballot in the 4 to 1 committee vote for a city-wide half-holiday, the South Boston member holding out for a full holiday throughout the city for the combined celebration of Evacuation Day and the Feast of St. Patrick.

The vote was taken after a delegation of citizens, led by Harry Bishop, president of the South Boston Citizens' Association, stormed the committee rooms for the session. A letter from Congressman John W. McCormack, favoring the full holiday, was read into the record.

Evicted Widow, 67, Ill Son Get Help

Boston welfare officials today worked to find quarters for Mrs. Mary Henderson, 67-year-old widow, who was evicted with her invalid son from the Hyde Park home she has owned for 27 years.

UNABLE to meet mortgage on home, Mrs. Mary Henderson, 67, of Dana avenue, Hyde Park, was evicted. The mother of an invalid son, she took out the mortgage three years ago.

For the first night in the 27 years that have passed since her husband's death, Mrs. Henderson was forced to sleep under a strange roof.

She was a picture of pathetic helplessness as she stood at the door of her home in Dana avenue and watched truckmen load her possessions into a van and drive away.

Three years ago Mrs. Henderson took out a Home Owners Loan mortgage on the home. For a time she was able to meet the interest, but last month the mortgage was foreclosed. Failure to find tenants for the two lower floors had depleted her income.

Welfare officials tried to persuade her to move to an apartment where she would receive free rent, but Mrs. Henderson firmly refused to move.

"I've lived here 27 years," she protested. "My husband died in this house. My baby was brought up here. Why can't I stay here now?"

The widow and her son have been living in three rooms in the attic of the house. Yesterday when Mrs. Henderson was served with the eviction writ she sent her invalid son to the home of friends so that he would not witness the removal of their furniture.

"Wherever I go my son will come with me," she said. Welfare officials added they will seek to place the widow and son in new quarters as soon as possible.

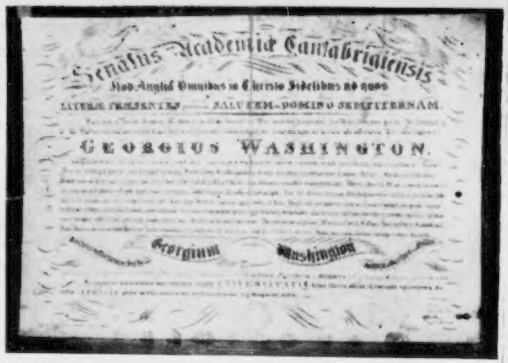
The eulogy will be given by Rev. Patrick J. Lydon of St. John's Church, Roxbury.



COPY OF HARVARD DEGREE GIVEN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON'S LIFE TOUCHED BAY STATE

By JAMES F. McENANEY

"America has furnished to the world the character of George Washington. And if our American institutions had done nothing else, that alone would have entitled them to the respect of mankind."—Words of Daniel Webster on laying cornerstone of Bunker Hill Monument, 1825.)

Tomorrow, throughout the United States, the 207th anniversary of George Washington, "Father of Our Country," will be celebrated.

To Massachusetts the observance of Washington's Birthday has considerable more than a mere patriotic holiday. Several of the great events in the life of our first President took place in this Commonwealth, particularly Cambridge and Boston.

During the critical moment of the Revolution patriot John Adams saw the wisdom of binding the South with New England's fortune by choosing a Virginian to lead her army.

Shortly after learning that he was to become head of the Continental Army and knowing that Boston was being threatened to destruction by the British, he wrote partly in a letter to a Bostonian:

"I will raise 1000 men at my own expense and march myself at their head for the relief of Boston."

CAME HERE THREE TIMES

General Washington came to Boston three times. The first was when he was colonel of the Virginia militia and came as the representative of the Governor of Virginia on a routine errand to the governor of Massachusetts.

His second visit to the Bay State colony was on the second day of July in 1775 where he found his army an armed mob, doing creditable things, but in a blundering unmilitary way.

On the following day under the famous elm in Cambridge Common, he accepted the commandership of the Continental Army.

The General's headquarters were in what is now known as the Longfellow home in Brattle street, Cambridge.

GEORGE WASHINGTON
Portrait by Stuart

Because of the splendid example Washington had made as a soldier and leader and his victory at Dorchester Heights, Harvard College awarded him an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, April 3, 1776.

It was the first honor of its kind ever bestowed by the Cambridge institute of learning. The then president of Harvard, Samuel Langford, signed the honorary degree.

Washington's last visit to Massachusetts was after being elected President of the United States. Along with his wife, several servants, a half dozen horse-drawn coaches laden with baggage, he came to Boston.

DEATH WINS RACE TO CHILD

Two police departments, a manufacturer of oxygen tents and the Boston Evening American raced with death today—and lost by a margin of minutes.

Just as the oxygen tent which might have kept her alive was being carried into Whidden Memorial Hospital, Everett, little Alba Denton, 9, died of pneumonia.

Alba Denton

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Denton of Avon street, Everett, was taken to the hospital yesterday, gravely ill.

During the night her condition became worse; by morning her temperature was hovering between 106 and 107 degrees.

Thereupon it became apparent that the girl's only chance for survival was by use of an oxygen tent. The only tent the hospital had, however, was being used to save a seven-year-old girl, also critically ill of pneumonia.

TENT RUSHED TO GIRL

In the emergency Mrs. Denton called the Boston Evening American, her appeal seconded by Dr. Anthony DeAngelo, house physician of the hospital, and Dr. Herbert Bloom.

This newspaper reached Earl Nichols, advertising manager of Warren E. Collins, Inc., of 555 Huntington avenue, manufacturers of oxygen tents and "iron lungs."

A call to Boston police headquarters brought orders from Police Superintendent Edward W. Fallon to clear traffic to the Everett line and rush the Nichols car through with an escort.

DEATH WINS RACE

This was done, and at the Everett line, by order of Sergeant Fred Gibson, another police escort was waiting.

Meantime, three nurses were working with Drs. DeAngelo and Bloom to keep the child alive. An inhalator was pressed into service.

The cars whirled up to the hospital, the tent was unloaded, and then a nurse appeared and shook her head.

Little Alba was dead.

She was the youngest of four children. The elder Denton is ill of heart disease and unable to work.

Walpole Describes Pope's Voting Hall

How the beautiful Sistine chapel of the Vatican is being transformed into a "city within a city" wherein the cardinals of the Sacred College will solemnly choose a successor to Pope Pius XI is colorfully described today by Hugh Walpole, celebrated novelist.

By HUGH WALPOLE

(World Copyright, 1939, by International News Service)

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 21— I am one of the very last of the outside world to see the splendid Sistine chapel before it is finally transformed into the voting hall of the conclave wherein the cardinals of the Sacred College will solemnly choose a Pope as the successor to Pius XI.

This morning I was alone except for the workmen who were busy covering the lovely mosaic floor with another wooden floor. Amidst the hustle and bustle which was transforming this chapel, the glorious paintings of Michelangelo seemed more vivid in their splendor.

A workman pointed out the hole in the right wall below which the brazier or stove will stand. Here the balloting papers will be burned as they have been for many hundreds of years. The smoke goes into the outer air, its color telling the waiting crowds below whether a new pontiff has been chosen.

The workmen arranged positions for the cardinals' thrones. In previous years the canopies over these thrones were of two colors—green for the cardinals elevated by popes previous to the dead pontiff, purple for those created during his reign.

At this conclave there will be no such distinction, and the canopies will all be purple.

How superb it will be when 62 cardinals, seated in their splendid magnificence, pray to God for guidance, then cast their votes!

Amongst them will sit one prince of the church who will, in a fortnight, be the new holy father of the Roman Catholic faith!

I asked a workman how soon the brazier that was going to mean so much to the waiting world would be set in its place. He said, "Any day, now."

From the chapel I went into the common dining room of the cardinals which will be situated on the first floor, the same floor as the chapel.

The kitchens will be under the splendid Borgia apartment. I saw an old-fashioned hand elevator in which the food will be sent up to the cardinals.

A committee of cardinals will have the interesting job of examining all the pots and dishes containing food to make certain that there are no messages from the outside world there and, at the other end of each meal, the empty plates will be rigidly inspected so that no news of the conclave is sent to friends outside.

I wandered in a city within a city today for over an hour and left it behind walls whose entrances are rapidly being closed.

Prisoners Hear Mass In Spain Bull Ring

VITORIA, Spain, Feb. 21 (AP)—Mass was sung today in two famous Spanish bullrings for government prisoners held there in nationalist concentration camps.

At an altar erected in the center of the ring 3500 former Republican fighters heard mass in the Plaza De Toros here. Another mass was celebrated in the San Sebastian bullring.

CARDINAL ARRIVES IN ROME MAR. 1

ABOARD S. S. SATURNIA, Feb. 21—William Cardinal O'Connell arrives at the Vatican before noon on March 1—the day balloting begins to choose the new Pope—it was revealed in an announcement by the Italian Line today.

The Saturnia now is scheduled to arrive at Gibraltar at 5 p. m. Sunday afternoon. The Cardinal and his party will transfer at once to the steamer Neptunia, which sails at 6 p. m. and docks at Naples at 2 a. m. on March 1.

It is expected that His Eminence will depart before daybreak on the 155-mile motor journey from Naples to Rome, arriving long before the convening hour of the College of Cardinals at noon.

At the same time, it was revealed that the Cardinal and his party will probably return to America on the Saturnia, which leaves from Naples on April 1 and arrives in New York on April 12.

Voting for Pope To Start March 2

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 21 (AP)—Cardinals at the Vatican announced officially today they would meet in conclave March 1 to elect a new Pope.

They previously had indicated they would start the conclave Feb. 28.

The Vatican announced, however, that the Cardinals decided the opening ceremony would be March 1. Voting consequently will begin March 2.

AIR BOOST BACKED BY U. S. HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (INS)—Paving the way for greater airplane production, the House appropriations army subcommittee has approved President Roosevelt's request for an emergency $50,000,000 fund.

A bill carrying this amount, it was announced today by Representative Snyder (D.) of Pennsylvania, chairman of the subcommittee, will be presented the House next week.

At the same time the annual army supply bill, which is expected to carry more than $460,000,000 to operate the army for the next fiscal year, also will be introduced.

Opening of idle airplane factories and expansion of others, the subcommittee was informed, will make it possible for the United States to produce 800 planes a month in time of great emergency.

Woman Judge Hurt in Crash

AYER, Feb. 21—Mrs. Golda Richmond Walters, associate justice of the Ayer district court, was seriously injured and her daughter Marilyn, 6, received severe cuts on her face when their automobile crashed into a tree in Washington street today.

Another daughter, Ina, 8, and Attorney Charles H. Walters, husband of the woman known as the "prettiest woman justice in Massachusetts, were shaken up.

Attorney Walters, according to police, was driving at the time of the crash.

The Walters car, according to witnesses, careened off the road at a turn in Washington street and smashed into a tree near the home of Dr. Sylvester Corrigan.

F. D. R. Flagship In 'War' Zone

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—President Roosevelt, aboard the flagship Houston, sailed leisurely eastward through the West Indies today for a "grandstand" view of the mock war around the Panama Canal.

"Fleet Problem 20", which began at 6 a. m. yesterday with preliminary scouting operations found the cruiser Houston and the escort destroyer Warrington in Cuban waters, and the Chief Executive paid his first visit to Guantanamo bay.

Steaming by the naval station, the Houston continued toward the Virgin Islands. Anageda passage, in that vicinity, was expected to be one of the principal points of attack by the "white" fleet. The Houston is a unit of the "black" defenders.

King Launches Huge Warship

NEWCASTLE, England, Feb. 21 (AP)—King George VI, guarded by more than 1000 police, today launched Britain's great new battleship which bears the name of his father, King George V.

"May God bless her and those who serve on her," the King cried as the 35,000-ton ship slid down the ways into the River Tyne.

The battleship is the first Britain has launched in more than 13 years and the first of a new group of monster vessels that will total at least nine.

France Bows to Franco To Hasten Recognition

PARIS, Feb. 21 (AP)—Foreign Minister Bonnet was reported today to have bowed to Insurgent Generalissimo Franco by dropping all the conditions on which France had sought to make formal recognition of the Nationalist regime contingent.

France at first sought guarantees from Franco that foreign troops would quit Spain after the war and Spanish government leaders would not be subject to reprisals, but Franco refused to outline his future policy.

Pushed by Great Britain and anxious to send an ambassador to Burgos to work against Italian and German influence, Bonnet was said by diplomats to have instructed his semi-official envoy, Senator Bernard, to meet Franco's terms.

When Berard returns to Burgos tomorrow from St. Jean-de-Luz, he is expected to tell the Nationalist foreign minister, Count Jordana, that full diplomatic recognition would be forthcoming from France without further discussion.

With the British envoy, Sir Robert Hodgson, he is expected to propose the names of French and British ambassadors for Franco's approval.

Madrid-Valencia Assault Planned

HENDAYE, France, Feb. 21 (AP)—Spanish military dispatches today reported increasing activity on the central front, indicating that a nationalist offensive on the last stronghold of the government was imminent.

General Franco, who entered Barcelona for the first time since his armies captured the city January 26, was said to be running plans for an assault on the Madrid-Valencia lines to end the civil war.

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Great Britain today sent a "vigorous protest" to Japan over the bombing of Hongkong territory by Japanese planes.

The foreign office radioed Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, British ambassador to Tokyo, to protest immediately to the Japanese government in the strongest terms.

Iran-French Row Over Cat Patched Up

PARIS, Feb. 21 (AP)—The quarrel between France and Iran over the mixup in the words shah and cat has been settled.

Foreign ministry officials said diplomatic relations, which were broken December 30 by Iran, would be resumed soon.

The shah had called his minister home in protest against the use by the French press of the word "chat," which means cat, but is pronounced like shah.

Richard Bennett Called Bette Ham, Got Face Slapped

"Bette Davis and Queen Bess! It all comes on tiptoe in the familiar Lytton style.

I've read Lytton Strachey's criticism of Bette Davis' performance in "Queen Bess" and expected disagreement on Broadway. The title role, Hamilton says, is a little more obtuse. He and I have discussed at some length my comparisons of Bette Davis to Queen Elizabeth and Marlene Dietrich to Mary Stuart. And so did Mme. Elisabeth Bergner. Also ran Mary and the sweet dear soul.

Bette [illegible]. Not that they were good. They were [illegible] important at last!

"Are you another of these young ham actresses?"

That's the greeting Bette Davis got when she confronted Richard Bennett for the first time after she was cast by his management to play in "Ah, Wilderness" in which he was starring. "Solid South."

[illegible] at heart, out of a job, she [illegible] to return to New York.

And again it rained. Now early [illegible] this story it was stated that [illegible] was [illegible] Bette's career. [illegible] was a [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THIS IS MY FIRST SIGNED ADVERTISEMENT

In a very short time the motion picture audiences of the world will have an opportunity to view Miss Shirley Temple in her first Technicolor production, "THE LITTLE PRINCESS." I believe that it is the finest motion picture with which I have ever been associated. For four consecutive years, picture audiences have voted Shirley Temple the most popular star. Frequently I have been asked the reason for this popularity which is so amazingly uniform in every country where motion pictures are shown. After you have seen "THE LITTLE PRINCESS" I am confident that you not only will agree with me that the reason lies in the truly great artistry of its star, but that in this picture—little Miss Temple's finest by far—you will have seen one of the most important films turned out by the motion picture industry.

Sincerely, Darryl F. Zanuck

By BETTY ALDEN

NO WONDER Fred Astaire is so thin . . . Dancing pedestal royal road to reducing. Connie Turner, comedienne of many Vincent Club shows, says she lost eight pounds rehearsing and dancing in last year's show . . .

Perhaps that's one reason why so many debs and post debs turn out so enthusiastically for the show try-outs . . . Dancing and trilling may do what diets and beauty treatments fail to do . . .

No, we're not going to mention any names . . . but when the girls got into their shorts at the opening rehearsal in the Somerset Ballroom yesterday, quite a few of them admitted that they could afford to lose a pound or two here and there! . . .

Sailor Suit

NANCY BLUMER, who turned out for the try outs to sing a French duet with Diana Bird, varied the scene a bit with her brown green sailor suit with long duck trousers in place of shorts . . . Mary West looked as alluring as ever in buttercup yellow shorts with brown socks and tie, and Eleanor Roosevelt tripped the light fantastic in several chorus numbers wearing her favorite red tarlton skirt and gray angora sweater . . .

Mrs. John Blyth, who has lent a helping hand to many Vincent productions, kept one eye on the proceedings and the other on her knitting . . . her nifty costume giving everyone else an eyeful . . . a deep violet wool coat set off with matching slippers, and fur, via suede purse and gloves . . .

Ellen Moseley is having her first fling as an executive of the show, together with Charlotte Rantoul, who is taking Connie Turner's place as secretary . . . After six years as a Vincent leading lady, Connie is foregoing the fun this year in favor of her job with a photographic company . . . While her Vincent pals were getting into their stride at the Somerset, she was on the job at the Copley-Plaza, scouting for glamorous models for future picture subjects, at the Spotlight Club's first luncheon . . . This is an organization of Boston's professional models, many of whom are society girls . . .

Premiere of Show on March 23

THOUGH they are famous for their diversified talents, the ability of the past few years' crops of debutantes doesn't seem to run toward writing playlets and skits . . . Last June the Vincent officers announced a contest, inviting members to write some skits and brief acts . . . but in all the intervening time only two scripts have been submitted . . .

Whether or not to include a couple of short acts between the lavish singing and dancing numbers in the revue is always a perennial headache to the producers . . . for the audience is apt to tire of too much repetitious musical fare, yet the girls don't co-operate very well in writing timely acts which can be incorporated into the score . . . This year's show goes on the boards for the first time March 23 in John Hancock Hall.

How About a Socialite Double Wedding?

BOSTON SOCIETY hasn't witnessed a double wedding for many a moon . . . and as we're always on the lookout for something new and different . . . especially unique "copy" angles . . . we'd like to humbly suggest that at least one of the three pairs of sisters who are now engaged, should get together and plan a duet affair . . .

Janet and Virginia McNeil who are engaged to C. Ogden Glass and William E. Rauth, would make a very charming pair of brides . . .

Margaret and Isabella Eaton of Concord have not yet announced their wedding dates to Charles C. Gibson and John G. Webb respectively . . . and Marjorie and Constance Kimpton might also take their marriage vows in unison . . . They are engaged to Charles Bulfinch and Francis Sommer, Jr. . . .

• • •

PHYLLIS TUCKERMAN, one of the North Shore's most enthusiastic younger horseback riders, is indulging her favorite sport at Aiken, S. C., winter mecca of society's hunting set . . . She is visiting Lilly Warren, daughter of the Bayard Warrens of Prides Crossing and Aiken, who gave a luncheon for Tillie and Nancy Nichols of New York on Sunday . . .

Proparvulis Club's Mardi Gras Gay Event

With [illegible] sounds of artificial [illegible] Arthur Lyon and his orchestra strumming such tunes as "Jingle Bells," the Proparvulis Club staged its Mardi Gras festival last evening at the Copley Plaza.

But the frosty setting of the decorations scarcely affected the party for the annual event was one of the gayest and merriest of the pre-Lenten season.

Helen Lafferty, club president, was smartly attired in white net, sprinkled with diamonte for her job as a one-man reception committee and leader of the grand march, highlight of the evening's supper dance. Meanwhile Mary McDonald, dance chairman, busied herself with a thousand chores in a white satin frock banded with silver tones and combined with bright scarlet.

The dance to Grace Dalton had a two-fold meaning, providing not only a gay evening but also an opportunity for her to announce her engagement to Ed Bacon, fellow a former club president. Arrangements were beautifully orchestrated with deep white organdie. Nature tinted orbs also figured the [illegible] color scheme, which Mrs. Lyon Hathaway wore with her [illegible] taffeta.

BANKHEAD SCENES WIN PRAISE IN NEW DRAMA

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK—The fan-mail for Tallulah Bankhead in "My Dear Children" is so huge that some of her fare-saving admirers will be mailing it collect. . . . Paramount and Metro have competed bids for the movie rights to "The Gentle People." Broadway columnists commemorating the 10th year of Jimmy Mooney's death are told by Key Recordings for the Boxing Defense Fund. . . . In Berlin now, whenever a Jew wants to leave Hitler free, he has only to threaten to commit suicide by jumping from a high building. . . . Hitler fears it might be bad for his prestige. . . .

LILLIAN HELLMAN threw a party at her home after the premiere of her play. The Little Foxes" is really a great play in which Tallulah Bankhead gives a superb performance. . . . Miss Hellman invited a Mr. Baron Lockwell and when she introduced him to her friends she was somewhat embarrassed to discover that the guests thought he was a title foreigner.

"He's not a count. He's a lot better than that," Lillian told Ann Corbett. "He's a Yank. I'll tell you why not." Ann proposed introducing him to Earl Larrimore, Duke Ellington and King Vidor."

THOMAS EDISON

JOHN MARRIOT who plays the servant in "The Little Foxes" received much applause after the scene but he missed his curtain's reception was heard. . . . "Where is he? Where is he?" the stage manager pleaded. . . . He's probably upstairs," said Dorothy Hammett, supporting Lucile Watson.

THE CHANGE in Lum-and-Abner's ownership won't occur until after the Rines trial. . . . The Supper Room at Sherry Richman's Road-to-Mandalay will be reopened tomorrow evening for the benefit night auction of the League of American Writers. . . . Richman incidentally, now is being managed by his brother, Lou. . . . Keenan Wynn, son of Ed Wynn, originally had an important role in "One for the Money," but by the time the show opened, his role was cut down to practically a walk-on. And so on opening night, Keenan wired the entire cast: "Good luck. Wish I were with you."

DORE SCHARY, who wrote the movie "Boys Town" is in New York now collecting data for his new assignment for Metro—the Life of Thomas Edison. . . . Schary was at the Tavern last night and listened to some advice being offered by Paul Stewart. . . . "Now, when you write the life of Edison," Stewart suggested, "here's the angle: You know—they laughed at McCormack when he sat down and invented the harvester . . . and also when he sang". . . . Billy Rose has ordered his Diamond Horseshoe girls to go easy on makeup. . . . "I could stow away under your makeup," he said to one girl who protested.

McDonough landed at Greenville Air

NO ONE TO BLAME

Leaping to safety were Lieutenant Hunter, Lieutenant F. G. Cummings, Cadet J. E. Cummings of Everett, Mass., Lieutenant T. D. Cummings, Cadet C. W. Hatcher and Lieutenant E. J. Harmer.

All three pilots said the crashes were in no way their fault. Lieutenant Cummings, whose plane fell into the back yard of the home of Mrs. S. R. Lewis at Mystic Grove, a suburb. Another plane, piloted by Lieutenant Hunter, fell in the Mystic River.

"It's unfortunate as it can be," Lieutenant Monroe said in discussing the incident. "It's just one of those things."

He said no blame could be attached to anyone. Cummings was coming up Mystic River and turned to the left, he explained.

"The fog came in suddenly and the planes were caught above it," Monroe added. "The pilots couldn't do anything. A lot of them were out of gas and most of them just jumped."

ALL WITHOUT RADIO

Lieutenant Monroe added there was nothing unusual about the crashes except that the pilots were forced to jump. The planes, attached to the newer Navy type, were not equipped with radio, he said, while the planes involved were not equipped with radio.

The two Cummings officers participated in the same battle [illegible] Cummings said they were not [illegible] fight, but were on the edge of it. They were [illegible] to a rendezvous [illegible]

Survivor Describes Florida Tragedy Flight

PENSACOLA, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—"We took off about 7:30 p. m. on a routine flight," Lieutenant Thomas P. Cummings said, in describing the tragedy flight of 12 navy planes last night. "The fog closed in about an hour and a half later as we were flying from Mobile to Pensacola, the last leg of our night training flight.

"We were flying by instrument, but it would hardly be called blind flying. We were above the fog, which extended to about 1200 feet, and the stars were plainly visible.

"JUST BAILED OUT"

"However, we could not see ground lights unless they were right below us and then we could not see them plain enough to do us any good. I didn't know we were approaching Pensacola until we were right over it.

"Part of the time we could see beacons off to one side, but the light from them was too dim to help us any. Finally we just bailed out."

STANDING ORDER TO JUMP

"We can't discuss things like that," he said. "The only thing I can say is that we have a standing order to jump when, in a captain's opinion, it is impossible for us to land safely."

LOVER AND FIGHTER -:- KID McCOY'S OWN STORY

Kid McCoy meets Jack (Twin) Sullivan, for the fourth time, and goes through the toughest fight of his career in a ten-round bout. McCoy is unable to continue the fight after the third round. McCoy is fighting battles in Arizona when he has defeated Peter Maher after training of William Muldoon's farm. Maher is given a new systemal training and manages him without cost in both the Maher and Sullivan bouts. In China McCoy is given another decision over Tommy Ryan, who champion was known as Wonder Boy in the ring.

Then McCoy was matched to meet Jim Corbett, the most important bout of his lifetime. Kid McCoy is today remembered as a pioneer for Henry Ford.

Chmielewski Like Other Polish Stars

Youth Will Come To Bruins' Aid

THE SENSATIONAL punching of Henry (Machine Gun) Chmielewski caused Harry Kelley to start talking about other great Polish middleweights.

"One will always have to rate Stanley Ketchel as the greatest of the Polish middleweights," said Kelley. "Ketchel could name the round in which he was going to knock out an opponent.

"At the height of his fame Ketchel gave away 30 to 40 pounds to Jack Johnson, and sent the giant Negro sprawling to the canvas when he scored with his famous right hand punch to the jaw. Johnson was able to struggle to his feet, and his tremendous weight advantage enabled him to win.

"Billy Papke, Frank Klaus and George Chip were other celebrated Polish middleweights. Like Ketchel, each was a puncher.

"Chmielewski can hit as hard as any of these middleweights with the possible exception of Ketchel. I don't think there ever was a middleweight who was as good a puncher as Stanley.

"Chmielewski punches best with his right hand, but he also fires a knockout sock with his left.

"Chmielewski has won 11 straight bouts since coming to this country. He still has much to learn about boxing. This explains why he was dropped to the canvas in his recent bouts with Unknown Morgan and Johnny Rossi. In both matches, Chmielewski came up off the floor fighting.

"Six months from now the youthful Chmielewski will not be so easy to hit, and he will still have the same tremendous power behind his own sock.

"Solly Krieger and Fred Apostoli are the best of the middleweights. I don't believe Chmielewski will be ready for either of these men before early next Winter, but when the Polish puncher has gained the necessary experience he will be prepared to parade into action with the top men in his boxing division."

Chmielewski will meet Rossi in a return ten-round bout at a Goodwin Club show at the Garden on Friday night. Rossi insists Chmielewski was lucky to knock him out, and he says that in the coming bout his own ring skill will keep him out front.

Rossi may be right, but I'm buying a win ticket on Chmielewski. I have gone out on the limb in picking him to win in each of his American starts, and he has yet to disappoint. You should not walk away from a winner.

Bruins' Youth Will Carry Club Through

THE YOUTH of the majority of the Bruins will carry the club through in the closing drive in the National Hockey League. Art Ross' team will take part in the Stanley Cup matches, and should win this precious trophy.

There is not any reason to get alarmed over the fact that Bruins suffered a 4-to-1 defeat from Detroit. It was natural that the club should have a let down after the sensational way it has been playing.

If the Bruins had a team of veterans such a reversal would be dangerous as the players might not be able to rally again. Art Ross has a few veteran players like Eddie Shore, but most of the members of his squad are youngsters. They will come back quickly, and will try to prove they are going on high again by defeating the Chicago Black Hawks at the Garden tonight.

The Black Hawks have had a dismal season, and have been having trouble trying to keep out of last position.

Bill Stewart was "fired" by the Black Hawks despite the fact he gave the club a world's championship last season. The passing of Stewart has not improved conditions with the Chicago club.

As it is the night before the Washington Birthday holiday, it is expected that a capacity gathering will jam the Garden for tonight's contest. Boston is very much hockey minded, and the Bruins are enjoying one of their best seasons at the box office as well as on the ice.

Random Shots at Target

LEO McLELLAN called from Manchester, N. H., with the news that the Manchester Rotary Club 75 strong will come to Boston by special train on February 28 to cheer for Eddie Shore at the Bruins-Canadiens game . . . Shore is a red hot favorite with New Hampshire hockey devotees.

Duffy Lewis is in charge of arrangements for the Southern trip of the Bees . . . The Bees will leave Boston for Bradenton, Fla., on Sunday, while Phil Troy will have the Red Sox headed for Sarasota, Fla., on Monday morning . . . It was almost warm enough in Boston yesterday for Spring training.

The sensational successes scored by Sonja Henie, Bess Ehrhardt, Evelyn Chandler and Evelyn Franklin have enabled manufacturers of figure skates for girls to do the greatest business in their history this Winter . . . Sonja and the other girl skaters are to thousands of girls what Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey and Jimmy Foxx have been to the boys of the country.

THREE AQUATIC CHAMPIONS IN B. S. A. HOLIDAY MEET

New England's leading swimmers will take part in the Boston Y. M. C. A. pool tomorrow night where the Boston Swimming Association will hold its 18th annual meet.

The program includes five championship events, in addition to five others for the lesser lights of the swimming world. There will also be an exhibition of fancy diving, with the opening event getting under way at 8 o'clock.

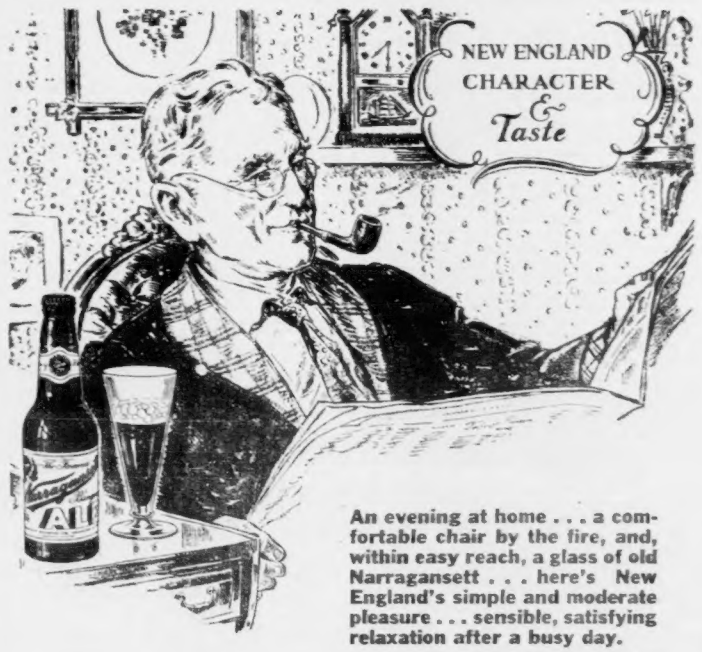
Two of the championship events are for New England junior titles, so new title holders will be crowned in them. In the other three the winners of a year ago will be on hand to defend their laurels.

The most prominent will be Doris Brennan of the Olneyville Boys' Club Auxiliary. She will try to retain her sectional title in the senior 220 yard free style. Another resident of Providence, John McCabe, will come to defend his senior N. E. 150-yard back stroke crown. The third will be Dorothy Leonard of the Worcester W. S. A. She won the Mass. State 160 yard free style diadem a year ago.

Miss Brennan, who has been New England's outstanding all-around naiad the past few years, will be the star attraction of the meet.

The Providence girl is now a freshman at Boston University and therefore unable to practice with the same regularity as was true in other years. In the back stroke and breast stroke she will have a serious contender for her furlong crown in Miss Leonard.

Posse relayists: Left to right, Ruth Kinsley, Helen Roark, Betty Morgan and Eleanor Weene, who will show wares at the B. S. A. swimming meet at the B. Y. M. C. A. pool tomorrow night.



An evening at home . . . a comfortable chair by the fire, and, within easy reach, a glass of old Narragansett . . . here's New England's simple and moderate pleasure . . . sensible, satisfying relaxation after a busy day.

Skhor Faces Chludinski Here Friday

Promoter Rip Valenti's building program takes a forward step Friday night at the Boston Garden when the Goodwin A. C. presents a star-studded card which promises the fans a large quantity of boxing and slugging while introducing a new member to the local pro ranks.

Baltimore Johnny Skhor, making his local debut as a member of the money ranks, faces Frank Chludinski, Hyde Park, in the feature of the pair of four-round bouts.

Skhor appeared here last December in the Hearst All-American bouts, having battled his way to the leading role on the Baltimore team.

While making a hit with the fans, Skhor lost the heavyweight title in a close match with Johnny Ferry, but even then looked like a coming champion.

What! No Purse?

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 21 (AP)—The walloping Paul Junior, Maine boxing favorite, and Lou Ambers gave each other in a Boston ring, Jan. 27, appeared today to have inspired a couple of the customers—two Portland policemen—to similar doings.

Official city hall correspondence revealed that Patrolman Robert P. Miller and Provisional Patrolman Patrick M. Connolly engaged "in what seemed to be a free-for-all fight" on the Boston-Portland train after the bout and that both were ordered to work five days without pay. Each accepted the penalty.

A letter from Chief of Police Ralph D. Brooks to the Civil Service Commission told of the incident.

Seabiscuit In Pleasing Workout

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21 (AP)—Charles S. Howard, who owns Seabiscuit, and "Silent Tom" Smith, who trains him, kept their fingers crossed today and admitted hopefully they expected the nation's No. 1 speedster to start in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap March 4.

The 'Biscuit galloped two miles and "cooled out" without a trace of the lameness which was so noticeable just a week ago as he lost his first out of the 1939 season to Neil S. McCarthy's Today.

Seabiscuit, by winning the "hundred grand," would become the leading money winner in the turf's history.

The fact that the 'Biscuit didn't hobble after his workout failed to impress the bookmakers. He remained at 15-1 in the future books.

Jockey Nick Wall of Boston is leading the winning riders here.

Wall has urged 31 mounts under the wire first, compared to 29 for Johnny Adams, who led by a wide margin until he was set down for 10 days. Still in the race are Johnny Longden of Calgary with 28 and Basil James with 26.

The stable of Alfred Gwnny Vanderbilt remained the leading money-winner with $30,403.

W. E. Boeing, Seattle airplane manufacturer, is second with $25,-190, just ahead of Howard, who has $24,500.

Blake of Canadiens Leading Scorer

MONTREAL, Feb. 21 (AP)—Anyone who thinks the plight of the Montreal Canadiens couldn't be much worse might try figuring out how they'd stand if they didn't have a fellow named Toe Blake plugging along on left wing.

The Canadiens have been last in the National Hockey League all season, but Blake has pulled himself up to the top of the league's individual scorers. The weekly statistical table today credits him with 17 goals and 18 assists for a total of 35 points.

Martin Lost To Olympics

The Boston Olympics will face off at the Garden tomorrow night with their deadliest rivals, the Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, in the first of a two-game series. The two clubs meet again on Sunday afternoon.

It is likely that the local club will be without the services of their husky defence man, Russ Martin, who was injured in the game with the Beavers. In his place, it is expected that Coach Hago Harrington will use Russ Allen, the former Harvard football captain.

Aside from Jack Harris' lame back the Olympics are in fine condition and should give the Cataracts the battle of the year. To date these two clubs have broken even on Boston ice, each team having won two and lost two. The Cataracts finished just above the Olympics in the Provincial loop.

Ski Scribblings

BY "TAP" GOODENOUGH

SKI SCOOP! Hannes Schneider, world-famous ski-meister, may be seen in action in a downhill race on the Taft Trail, March, 5! Plans are now underway by the Hochgebirge Club of Boston, who are holding their ninth annual invitation meet on this date, to have Herr Schneider form a team of Austrian instructors to compete in this race.

Walter Prager, Dartmouth ski coach, has been asked to form a Swiss team which would also add zest to the event. If these plans materialize, the greatest array of downhill racers ever assembled in this country will roar down the Taft Trail in competition!

SNOW TRAINS will schuss tomorrow to Conway, North Conway and Intervale, N. H. The time of departure is 8:15 a. m. Many of the expected army of skiers will attack Cronmore Mountain and its Skimobile, with other slopes and trails also invaded.

Sunday morn, early arrivals for the Snow Train were few, and the first section pulled out carrying only over 200. There were thoughts of cancelling the Second Section, but at 8:15, scores of skiers began to straggle in, and the train left at 8:30 with more than 300 aboard!

Most of the Snow Trainers went to North Woodstock and Lincoln where the majoriti skied on the new Coolidge Mountain development with its trails and tows. Others ascended Cannon Mountain via the Aerial Tramway where skiing was fair to good. The storm we left raging atop the mountain late Sunday afternoon should provide grand conditions on all trails now. Eleven hundred skiers were conveyed up the mountain, giving the train its second busiest day of the winter. The Ski-Patrol did their usual grond job and only two accidents were reported.

North Woodstock, Lincoln Favorite Spots of Ski Fans

Schussingand swerving through a swirling snow storm, 26 shadowy skiers contested the seventh race in the Newfound Region Accumulated Slalom Series, Sunday on the Thomson Club,' Slalom Glade, Sugar Hill, Bristol, N. H., over a fast course. Grant Birkenhead of New Hampton School was their winner, strengthening his lead for the seasonal plaeque.'

He was clocked in two minutes, 16 seconds for the two runs. Lucy Hawkes, Black and Blue Trail Smashers' star who won at the Dartmouth Carnival,, captured first place in the woman's division, with the guest Placque going to Dorothy Millett of Salem, Mass. Oscar Cyr directed the races.

Through the same driving storm, Joe Epply of Manchester led a field of 17 in the fourth of the weekly standard slalom runs at Wendy's slope in Plymouth, N. H. This was his second victory in the series.

Holiday Card at Newfound Region Provides Sport for All

WINTER sports events are scheduled for tomorrow, Washington's birthday, at Bristol, N. H., with the first annual Newfoundland Region snow fest. There will be races of all kinds and fun for all. A feature and novel activity will be a rolling pin casting contest for ladies on skis!

AT WHITEFIELD, N. H., the annual Winter Carnival runs today and tomorrow. A dozen high schools of the region will compete for a leg on the Whitefield Outing Club Cup, one having been won by Dow Academy, Franconia, and three giving possession. Fancy and comic skating exhibitions will be staged as well, and a queen will be cornated.

"Track!" A sanctioned ski meet is on tomorrow at Braintree Valley, Vermont. Cross-country and downhill races are planned for the morning with a slalom in the afternoon if the shadows don't lengthen too early.

Cunningham Encounters Stiff Opposition in Vets Mile Run

By MURRAY KRAMER

Boston track fans get their last winter peek at such famed athletes as Cunningham, Borican, Cagle, Beetham, Lash and other headliners tomorrow evening at the East Newton Street Armory, when the Veterans of Foreign Wars make their bow in major promotion with a big meet.

One last - minute development finds Jimmy Herbert withdrawn from the 600, but to offset this loss, the officials of the VFW have been very fortunate in securing a post entry from Charlie Beetham, former Ohio State great who should be as good as Herbert.

Herbert has yet to hit his stride and has failed to impress in any major race either in Boston or New York. Beetham, on the other hand, after a slow start last month, has been rounding into shape and appears ready to duplicate a 1:12 600 which he turned in while a studen at Ohio State.

As a result of this change, the 600 field will now be made up of Charlie Beetham, Harold Cagle, Dick Gill, Howard Borck and Wesley Wallace—every one a star and each capable of winning the event. The result should be a great race.

Interest, however, is centered largely on the mile, for here Glenn Cunningham will receive new opposition from John Borican, the indoor sensation who has been building up for the mile in order to threaten the supremacy of Cunningham. Borican ran the mile once this year and that was in Philadelphia, where he turned in an unimpressive 4:23 performance. As a result of this experiment, he now claims that he has every confidence that he can really run the mile.

Borican Clips Record To Beat Cunningham

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 21 (INS)—A mile specialist in his recent campaigns, Glenn Cunningham was beaten by John Borican, New Jersey Negro, in a stunning upset in the 1000-yard feature of the annual Seton Hall games.

The barrel-chested Kansan trailed by eight yards as Borican clipped the track record by three seconds by running the distance in 2:14.3.

Philip Graves of New York won the mile event, beating Johnny Wall of San Francisco with a slow performance—4:18.8.

Westminster Kennel Winners In 27th Eastern Dog Club Show

The 27th annual Eastern Dog Club show opened today at Mechanics Building with afternoon and evening performances and will continue tomorrow.

A total of 1232 canine aristocrats are entered in the two-day competition, including many winners from last week's classic of dogdom, the Westminster Kennel Club show of New York.

Gloria Heather, Scottish terrier which topped the field in 1938, will not defend her laurels, but Heather Select, which was a winner at Westminster, will uphold the family's prestige.

Gloria Heather and Heather Select are both owned by the Mr. and Mrs. Charles Statler of the Hobokus, N. J., kennel.

As many as 27 winners from Westminster will appear in the competition here. Among them are: Q. A. Shaw McKean's Afghan, Ch. Rudki of Prides Hill; Milson Kennel's Irish setter, Ch. Milson Top Notcher; the greyhound Ch. White Rose of Boveuny frfom Windbolme Kennels; Mr. and Mrs. Francis V. Crane's great Pyrenee, Ch. Ibex du Val d'Aure of Basquaerie; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stalfers' scottie, Heather Select; Waseeka Kennel's Waseka's Sea Drift, a steady winning Newfoundland; Mrs. John G. Winant's West Highland white, Wolvey Pattern; John B. Royce's championship Pekingese, Nanking Noel, and Mrs. Robert B. Choate's Ch. Radio Beam of Reb'n Hill, leader of the Sealyhams assembled at Madison Square Garden.

Maro of Maridor, of the most famous English setters in the United States, has been entered. Maro is a brother of Daro of Maridor, winner in the 1938 Westminster Show, and is now owned by Mrs. Biddle Duke of Tuxedo Park, N. Y.

Feature of the holiday will be an obedience test. Bert T. Turnquist, training director, is in charge and will direct 14 dogs, representing 10 breeds, in the exhibition.

BILL'S SPORT-O-GRIMES

belittling Frankie Brimack's ability as a goal minder by calling attention to the fact that the rookie is protected by an impregnable outer defense. But in all honesty and sincerity, Eddie Shore, "Dit" Clapper, Jack Portland, Jack Crawford, Bill Hollett and Jack Shewchuk will tell you Frankie is really "tops" . . . New York Rangers have added a midget club to their farm chain. It's an Edmonton aggregation known as "Rompers" . . . George Murphy, Lewiston, Me., furrier, will go to Bradenton with his pal Duffy Lewis of the Bees . . . Unless all of the ailing members of his family have recovered, Pres. Bob Quinn will not be on the train when the Boston delegation starts South next Sunday afternoon . . . "Buddy" O'Connor, of the Montreal Royals, who is the leading point getter of the Senior Group, will turn pro next season.

* * *

At least eleven major league managers are destined for many sleepless nights until such a time as they have seen their ailing pitchers really bear down.

Many of the outstanding pitchers came up with bad arms last season. Some analysts blame the "rabbit" ball for the sore arm epidemic; others say it is due to air conditioned cars.

Within the past five years surgeons have reaped a harvest operating on pitchers. In the period, more hurlers have submitted to scalpels than in the annals of baseball. It's almost become a fad.

Joe Cronin has his troubles with "Lefty" Grove and Jack Wilson, particularly the latter; Joe McCarthy will shed weight until he's convinced that Wes Ferrell and Spurgeon Chandler are fit; Bill Terry will have a "peeve" until it's "yes" or "no" as far as Carl Hubbell and Hal Schumacher are concerned; Del Baker has his troubles with "Schoolboy" Rowe and Tommy Bridges; Oscar Vitt will run a fever every time he sees Johnny Allen cut loose; Bill McKechnie has a problem on his hands in "Lefty" Grissom; Gabby Hartnett will be from Missouri, not the Blackstone Valley, until Dizzy Dean "shows" him; If Bob Klinger shakes off his "hexes," "Pie" Traynor might agree to trade Lee Handley to the Bees; Ray Blades is concerned over Paul "Daffy" Dean; Looking for a running mate for Hugh Mulcahy, "Doc" Prothro is offering up prayers that Claude Passeau will be right and, with or without the consent of Leo Durocher, Larry McPhail will stage a real party if Van Lingle Mungo comes through.
